Moral Political Organizing Leadership Institute and Summit

With Rev. William J. Barber II, architect of North Carolina's Moral Monday/Forward Together Movement

Rescheduled for Monday, February 8

Please join Rev. Dr. William J. Barber II, architect of North Carolina's Moral Monday/Forward Together Movement, on Monday, February 8, 2016 for a Moral Political Organizing Leadership Institute and Summit, MPOLIS.

MPOLIS is a workshop and gathering of religious leaders of all faith traditions and organizers to engage in discussions, based in the teachings of their faith traditions and focused on the moral imperative to engage in social justice work and community involvement as central to their ministries both in their places of worship and the public square.

The session will engage participants in scripture exegesis, moral analysis of social policy, and discussion of social justice movements.
